The ZULA Patrol Invades LASM's Planetarium

BATON ROUGE, LA — Louisiana Art & Science Museum (LASM) is bringing The Zula Patrol: Under the Weather to the Irene W. Pennington Planetarium. Based on the popular, award-winning PBS animated children's series, The Zula Patrol teaches little explorers key science concepts as they encounter the strange and wild weather of the solar system's different planets.

"We are absolutely thrilled to debut our dome show at Louisiana Art & Science Museum, introducing children and families to a myriad of new science concepts in a truly fun, colorful and interactive way," said Deborah Manchester, the Zula brand's creator.

The Zula Patrol: Under the Weather is a digital, CG-animated show featuring the same lovable wacky cast of alien characters as the TV series. Kids will zip across the universe with the Zula Patrol's stalwart heroes as they try to save the solar system's weather from the interplanetary villain Dark Truder. The show has a secondary goal of encouraging nonviolence and tolerance.

The Zula Patrol: Under the Weather starts January 10. The show will also be available in LASM's portable discovery dome. For more information on LASM and The Zula Patrol: Under the Weather, visit www.lasm.org or call Elizabeth Tadie at 225-344-9478.
